Who are we?

The Scientific Committee (SC) is a dedicated group of experienced nurses from all over Europe with specific interests in Hematopoietic Stem Cell Transplantation and cellular therapy.

They complement each other through their different specialties, from working as a nurse specialist, nurse coordinator or as a nurse on a hospital ward, apheresis unit, outpatient clinic and/or consultation unit.

The local nurse from the city hosting the Annual Meeting will serve on the committee for two years.

Together with the Nurses Group board, we are dedicated to achieving the goals of the Scientific Committee.

Goals

The Scientific Committee is responsible for the nurse-oriented scientific program at the EBMT Annual Meeting. In addition, we are working together with the other EBMT nursing committees.

A second aim is to engender confidence in presenting a poster or oral session in both new and experienced nurses and allied health care professionals.

To bring nurses and other healthcare members experienced in HCT and Cellular therapy together and let them share experiences. We organize at the AM a nurses networking corner where nurses from different countries and hospitals, can share their knowledge.

Abstracts

As a committee we review all the submitted abstracts from nurses and allied health care professionals who would like to present their research or project at the Annual Meeting in Madrid.

We select the submitted abstracts for the Oral and Poster Sessions at the Annual Meeting, so that nurses can explore the latest nursing research and findings in the field and connect with abstract presenters.

Together with the Research Committee and the Pediatric Committee we select the best oral presentations and posters.

Next Generation Group

The Next Generation Group brings together early-career transplant nurses who want to connect, exchange ideas, and shape the future of transplant nursing.

Your perspective matters - this community grows through the energy and ideas of the next generation.
